WHAT WE DO

“High-Pressure Storage Tank & Piping”

High-pressure storage tanks are used in various industries including chemical, process heating, energy, oil and gas to store fluids or gases at high pressures.

Most of high-pressure storage tank requires its specifications for design and materials to be used.

Our company has in-depth knowledge and expertise to work with various type of materials for building high-pressure tanks.

WHAT WE DO

“Industrial Piping”

Industrial process piping is the safest and most effective way to move fluids and gases through an industrial or manufacturing facility.

When building a new industrial facility, it is required to plan the process piping as a part of the overall design.

We take priority to ensure your facility to be fully functioning by providing our process integration services including process piping and utility piping services.

WHAT WE DO

“Fire Fighting System”

When it comes to fire safety, it is extremely important how the system is built on site. Our company provides the best insights and efforts on fire related subjects.

We provide total solutions on fire fighting system setup including but not limited to; Fire fighting system piping, Pump installation, relocation of the system, revamping, maintenance, and system setup on the new construction.
